YOU ARE INVITED TO ABIN-PA'S
2010 Leadership Training for Brain Injury
Survivors & Family Members

BUILDING A BETTER FUTURE

Survivors and family members face many barriers to recovery. There is no public awareness, no family education, and no rehabilitation for most brain injury survivors including children.

As a result, survivors struggle with daily life, relationships, school and work. Families are bewildered and exhausted. And unfortunately, many survivors receive state-funded services in the mental health system, the mental retardation system, nursing homes, the juvenile justice system, or prison instead of rehabilitation. Change is needed.

Come and discover how other groups advocate for change. Learn what the brain injury community is trying to do and how you can help. Try out the new ABIN-PA peer discussion manual for sharing brain injury rehabilitation and recovery strategies with survivors and families.
